The screenshot shows the MetaLib interface for Colorado State University Libraries. At the top, there is a navigation bar with 'RESOURCES' and 'E-JOURNALS' tabs, and a main search form. The user is identified as a 'Guest user'. The main content area is titled 'Welcome to MetaLib' and contains a welcome message and a list of help links. On the right, there is a 'MY SPACE' section with links to 'My Resource List', 'My e-Journals List', and 'Session Preferences'. Annotations include: 'Click on Resources to search Databases and E-Journals to browse electronic journals.' pointing to the 'RESOURCES' tab; 'Main Search Form will only work after you've selected a category and hit Go.' pointing to the 'PICK A CATEGORY' dropdown; 'Start Here' and 'Select resources to search.' pointing to the search form; 'Click on these links for help.' pointing to the help links; and '"My Resource List" and "My E-Journals List" will be deleted when you exit MetaLib.' pointing to the 'MY SPACE' section.

Welcome to MetaLib

MetaLib is CSU's meta-database search tool. You can use MetaLib to search multiple databases simultaneously for electronic or paper resources.

If you are reading this screen, you are a guest user of MetaLib. As a guest user, you can search databases and download or email your search results. Be aware that off-campus guest users will only be able to access a small number of the resources and databases that are available to on-campus guest users. For all guest users, data that is sent to your e-Shelf or selected for personal resource lists will not be saved after you have logged off. To keep permanent records in MetaLib, you must log in to MetaLib as a registered user. This feature is not currently available. You will be able to log in to MetaLib using your CSU eID later this summer.

Click the following links for step-by-step information about how to
